The bilingual Jahrbuch des Dubnow-Instituts/Dubnow Institute Yearbook will be published on 14 November 2022. It concentrates on Jews in Europe immediately after the World War II and in South America in the twentieth century. In addition to the classic book format, the Yearbook will be available for the first time as a free open access publication from Monday onward. The editor is the director of the Dubnow Institute, Yfaat Weiss.

In their focal point, Kata Bohus and Elisabeth Gallas address Jews in postwar Europe, honing in on the actors themselves and the challenges that Holocaust survivors faced in rebuilding their lives. The second focal point "Lucha y Libertad", edited by Lukas Böckmann and Jan Gerber, explores Jewish experiences of existence in South America during the Cold War.

The general section and specialized sections include among others contributions on political and legal history as well as on questions of literature, language, and source materials.

The Yearbook is a peer-reviewed journal. All submissions undergo an anonymous review procedure, the success of which is the precondition for publication.
